■ Gallery Pangolin's most exciting challenge to date has been the curation of two landmark exhibitions at Gloucester Cathedral: Crucible 2010 and the current Crucible 2.

■ Many of the artists involved in those exhibitions also work on a smaller scale, and Mini Crucible provides the perfect opportunity to show some of these more domestic and intimate pieces.

■ The works on show echo and reflect the themes and aspirations of both Crucible and Crucible 2 and visitors will enjoy exploring these subtle connections.

■ Highlights include:

'Unless Miniature' by Kenneth Robertson: a pocket-sized version of his life-size bronze pygmy hippo, so popular with visitors at the cathedral.

'Blind Tracery' by Colin Reid: from the same series as 'Through a Glass Darkly' at Crucible 2 and cast into glass from moulds of medieval stonework at Gloucester Cathedral.

'Tick Tock Maquette' by Steven Gregory: a miniature version specially made for the show.
